DETAILED ACTION

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, it is not clear how the closure mechanism can "exert a compressive force of greater than 50N". There is recited no structure which would perform this function. Such a desired for appears to be a product of the size of the cartridge.

Claim 1 appears to be incomplete in that it fails to disclose all of the elements which allow for a compressive force of 50N to be applied. The specification cites other elements such as a "helical spring" or "wave spring" (see page 48 of specification).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kollep et al. '332.

There is disclosed in Kollep a closure mechanism for a beverage device, comprising: a lower part 1 and an upper part 2, the upper part and lower part being movable relative to one another; a resilient member 28 which contacts a top surface of a beverage cartridge; and a peripheral member which could contact a periphery of the cartridge (see figures 9 and 10).

In regards to the compressive force at which the closure mechanism exerts on the cartridge, such is an operational function and fails to constitute a structural limitation.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8-11 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 12-15 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 23 March 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the claimed compressive force must be disclosed by the prior art references. A view of the Kollep references discloses all of the claimed structural limitations. Thus, it is apparent that the Kollep device is capable of exerting a force of 50N on the cartridge. Since, applicant has failed to disclose any structure which would provide the claimed force, such is an intended use of the device and fails to further limit the device structurally.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
